Duncan Buchannan, our current Life Saving Manager has been granted a leave of absence for 12 months to pursue a personal development opportunity overseas. SLSNR are therefore recruiting a new Life Saving Manager who will be required to step in to lead and guide our lifesaving and rescue operations. The role will now be supported by a team of four Supervisors and overseen by an Operations Manager. The successful candidate will be required to commence work as soon as practicable completing the contract on the 20th April 2019. The position is full-time and located at the Marine Rescue Centre in Mechanics Bay, Auckland.

This is an exciting temporary opportunity to work within the Operational team at SLSNR and to help grow and develop the Lifesaving strategy in the region. For more information please visit the SEEK website.

If you wish to be considered please send your CV as well as a written application setting out how you meet the criteria and why you believe you should be our new Life Saving Manager to:
